In the first of the two shows the government took the wraps off a retail security plan to ensure the public is protected from cannabis retailers breaking the law. In the second show the government announced that it will loosen the restrictions for cannabis retailers to allow them to begin as soon as May 1. The government of Doug Ford has already laid out plans to pull cannabis from the illegal market, and will do so on April 1. The day before the provincial budget was delivered, Finance Minister Vic Fedeli said the government will ensure the country is ready for cannabis legalization, and wants to ensure Ontario is the “safest place” for consumers to purchase cannabis. When asked about how he wants to market pot, Fedeli said he wants Ontarians to have a great experience. On Tuesday, Fedeli said the province plans to fully regulate cannabis once it is legalized, and the rules around selling cannabis will be tight. Retail stores will be open from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Monday to Saturday, and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday. “If you come in our stores you won’t be able to take a leak in our bathrooms,” Fedeli said. The new retail security plan will cost $5 million and will apply to cannabis stores that are fully licensed and licenced to sell cannabis. 09e8f5149f

ASPDotNET Ajax Chat is an easy to install, Ajax powered chat software. It's a fast way to develop a chat application for the web with a quick learning curve. The software supports multiple modes of user interaction, including visual/audio, live text chat or a combination of both. The chat sessions can be integrated with a database, allowing users to store their names, real time chat messages, photos, videos, files and much more. The software is very easy to install and configure and supports multiple languages. It also comes with a number of pre-configured user themes, each with their own unique looks and styles. ASP.NET AJAX makes sure your chat application is scalable, high performance and ready for the future. Based on ASP.NET and XML, the Ajax chat software architecture provides a secure and reliable data storage and communication platform. The chat application is written in ASP.NET and seamlessly integrates with the Microsoft.NET framework. It also supports a variety of modalities including audio, visual, text chat and file transfers. The software can connect to a variety of SQL Server databases and for the most part it's plug and play with the database system. It supports on-demand database indexing and can be integrated with your existing user/profile database system to offer a quick and seamless way to build new chat software. The chat technology can be extended to include video streaming, file transfer and other applications. It can also be highly customized by offering multiple design themes and a set of user interface components including dates, data grids, buttons, sub-divisions, notifications, etc. ASPDotNET Ajax Chat comes with a 30 days trial which can be upgraded to a full version for $169. 30 days trial upgrade to full version for $169 25.  Comments I personally like using this software as it's does a lot in 1 quick easy step and unlike others it support other languages for chat so if you join for example CodeFusion Chat you can use it for.NET, JAVA, PHP, Python. however it needs a db to be connected to so you need to create it on your own and it will be ready to use when you install this. ASPDotNET Chat has it's own Dialer type to support different kinds of browsers and to use the chat for free (trial) you need to own this software. To get the download link you need to post the feedback
