Note When you launch Photoshop CS6 for the first time after upgrading from an earlier version, you see a selection screen that you have to click to continue. This is a one-time action, though. In subsequent launches, you do not see this screen. For more information, see the sections that follow. * New: Layers. In earlier versions of Photoshop, layers had the ability to have multiple effects applied to them. Now you simply select a layer and apply multiple effects to it. If you want to apply multiple effects to the same layer, in Photoshop CS6, you simply create a group of layers. You can manipulate the group by adjusting the group's position on the layers palette, which displays only the layers in the group. You also can move a layer to another group if you want to apply a different effect to that layer. If you want to have only one layer in a group, you can change the group's visibility.

A comparison of the Chinese version and cultural adaptation of the Nottingham Hip and Knee Scores (Chinese versions). To evaluate the reliability and validity of the Chinese versions of the Nottingham Hip and Knee Scores (Chinese versions, NHKS and Chinese version, CHKNS). A test-retest design was used. One hundred and eighty subjects (25-76 years) with a variety of hip or knee problems. CHKNS and NHKS total scores demonstrated strong inter-rater reliability (0.95), while the NHKS pain, function, and walking scores showed moderate and moderate reliability, respectively. Internal consistency of NHKS total, pain, function, and walking scores were high (0.86-0.93). Correlation between total scores of CHKNS and NHKS (0.61-0.94) was moderate and higher for the pain and function subscales (0.68-0.89) than for the walking subscale (0.53-0.78). Correlation coefficients between the total scores of CHKNS and NHKS in the patient group (0.53-0.92) were all statistically significant (P < 0.05). Lower bound for the time function for the multi-player majority function The time complexity of the n -player majority function can be proved by using Yao's min-max theorem with respect to any $X \in \{0, 1, \dots, 2^{n-1} - 1\}$ in the following way.
$$T_n(X) \leq \min_{\text{inputs}} \left(\text{maximum number of rounds} \right) \cdot b_{\text{majority}}$$
