ViewHolder for Recyclerview My Recyclerview is set to populate data from a dataBase instead of a Arraylist. However, when the data is loaded I am required to manually add each item. I have been going through the official documentation on Android Developers website but to no avail. What they are saying is that we are required to make a class that extends `RecyclerView.ViewHolder` and that in this class we have a member for `dataView`. Which has to be set to the view that you want to populate (like `child.findViewByIdWithTag("idofadviewitem")`). When `RecyclerView.setAdapter` is invoked

The present invention is directed to a load-sharing slider for a slider-belt-type image transfer arrangement and, more specifically, to a load-sharing slider for implementing the synchronized loading of multiple sheets of paper into a transportation path in a printing apparatus. The image-transfer portion of a printer or copier is one of the most critical elements in the system. If a paper jam occurs in the transportation path of the image-transfer device, the paper will become loaded into the device again and again. With a copier, this problem will occur multiple times as the machine's original paper supply has been used up and a new set of paper has to be loaded into the machine. This problem increases with the capacity of the copier, as the number of images printed increases with the number of paper supplies. In a printing apparatus, this problem occurs when the paper is transported through the image-transfer device. For instance, the paper that is currently being printed can become loaded into the transport path of the image transfer device for the next image transfer event. This can occur by passing a sheet of paper between the image transfer device and a stack of reference sheets, upon which is printed the same indicia as the indicia to be printed on the paper now being transported through the image transfer device. As the paper is transported through the transfer device, the reference sheet is loaded into the transport path for each image transfer event. The throughput of the printing apparatus is greatly diminished when the paper jams occur as the image transfer device must be

Q: Showing that a normed space is reflexive. I have some trouble with showing that a normed space is reflexive (and therefore complete). The following is a small case. Say that E is a normed space. And say that X is a linear manifold in E , i.e. X is a Banach space, together with $E \rightarrow \mathbb{R}, e \mapsto \|x-e\|$ continuous. Show that X is complete, i.e. if (x_k) is a Cauchy sequence in X then (x_k) is also Cauchy in E .

Thanks for your help! Edit: For my case E is a Banach space, X is a linear manifold. A: If (x_k) is Cauchy in X , then for all

What's new in Elden Ring:

SPOILER: To know the story in greater detail, please read the following checklist _>Tue, 03 Jan 2016 21:18:39 GMT 4: WizID:

Because there is a small chance of passing, I'm just gonna talk about this on my own.

First off, there's only 1 secret in the game. Make sure that you have unlocked the laser from the start. Once you actually start the mission, you'll realize this secret is laid out pretty obvious, but how many people would actually ask for a laser over something as trivial as grenade? Also make sure that you have well done the job with other mission before playing this quest. Once you actually start playing, you'll understand where each challenge is going. I've already beaten this mission one times, but you'll be better in your next tries if you know where to go. I've spent around an hour and half on this mission in the first try.

There's no wrong way to hack in. If you can't hack without entangling the hole by the guards, just go around and pick the lock next to the spot. Otherwise, if you have to be careful, take the button to lock the door, then you can open it and run to the hole. The pattern is just that you can't try to stop itself from unlocking the hole.

In this mission, there's just a quick

Kevin Smith has a new thing called "Cannibal Questions" and he's bringing someone to the show to answer those: John Goodman! Back in February, I criticized the way the sometimes-something-but-mostly-nothing episodes of Cannibal Cop were falling apart, and I suggested that Goodman should be brought in to guest star. That didn't exactly happen, and the partnership with Goodman was simply expanded into some standalone material, as he'll be popping up in the later episodes of this series. I'm still thrilled that Goodman is on board, but I do wish I'd seen C&C sooner so I could have asked him about his amazing performance in 1998's Batman Forever, which I thought was my favorite comic book movie by a mile. For those of you who need a refresher on Goodman's role, check out The Big Time. No, seriously, get the Netflix/Comixology app on your phone and binge all of Goodman's best: Werewolf, Buffalo '66, Seriously Weird Crime Stories, the best part of Robots, Two of a Kind, Dark Blue, Comic Book Guy, The Dirty Dozen, Spaceballs, Dogma, Matilda, Failure to Launch, Reign Over Me, The Judge, Stuck On You, The Benchwarmers, The Adventures of Ford Fairlane.
