The Silver Case is an action shooting game developed by Nitroplus with the idea to achieve a new type of story. The world of a child who is capable of seeing dead spirits and ghosts is the backdrop of this story. Your character is Haruto Hirokawa, a 9 year old boy who lives in a modernized city with access to private cars and robot dogs. He loses his parents suddenly and is left alone without his younger sister to rely on. When he comes home from his elementary school he finds that his room has been altered and everyone is talking about him. After the school he is invited to go on an investigation trip. There he meets Yaguchi, a detective; who knows Haruto as a ghost hunter and a policeman who knows him as a delinquent kid. The two of them set off on a strange journey to solve mysteries and find the truth behind Haruto's unfortunate circumstances. Story: Haruto Hirokawa lost his parents suddenly. Where did they go? Was something wrong at home? Was it about the school he attends or the dream in the dead of night? As he wonders, he comes home to a room that has been changed. Someone threw away his beloved comics and a robot dog has been left behind. He comes upon various people, all of whom have something in common with him. Where is his home? What is this all about? Features: - DIFFICULTY LEVELS: There are easy and challenging stages, allowing for beginners to enjoy the game to its fullest. - RETROSPECTIVE BUILD: The structure of the game has been designed to allow users to experience the story with ease and without confusing them with explanations. - MODULAR GAME SCREEN: Players are able to customize the game screen by tweaking the configuration settings and saving the data. - EXCELLENT GRAPHICS: With a variety of background scenes, characters and impressive graphic effects, users can enjoy a living movie-like story in a unique gaming environment. - EXCITING SOUND EFFECTS: The sounds that are heard at the time of battle, the sound of the bullet ricocheting around in the air, the sound of knocking, etc. are all used to immerse users into the game. - REVOLUTIONARY CONTROL METHODS: A user will be able to use various shooting techniques (Fist Mode, Rapid Shooting, Dimple/Smile Shooting, etc.) and go through each action comfortably c9d1549cdd

CAGraspy celebrates 5 years of existence and is going strong! It is an oddball cyberpunk survival game in which your character (you) starts his journey as a normal person and gradually acquires power and other characteristics of super-humans (CAGs) as he runs away from gangsters. No download required. Open up the CAGraspy app on iOS or Android, and you will be greeted by a surprise popup with the highest quality CAGraspy image. You can directly tap the image to start the game! The reasons why we choose CAGraspy is that it provides the highest quality graphics and the most polished gameplay experience, making it the best choice among other generic survival games. No crappy mobile graphics here! The difficulty is easy, yet challenging enough to keep the players busy. Contrary to popular belief, CAGraspy is NOT a roguelike game. There is no "permadeath" rule. Your character's life is non-linear and you can finish the game in one or several attempts. It is a typical survival game that allows its players to enjoy a fresh experience every time they play. CAGraspy has 60+ levels ranging from darkness to sunshine, from the tropical rainforest to the dark alleys. The world is growing as you become a CAG. Rendering Home Design 3D Rendering Hi I need a 3d rendering of my client's house that basically is built up and based off a design of a drawing she made. I don't have a 3D CAD program(cubic because I don't know any), so i just wanted to make a 3D drawing based on that drawing. Does anyone know of any software. I have googled and there are so many options. I would like the option to be able to zoom in and out and pan around the drawing like photoshop. Thank you I've just edited this since I started... there are a lot of software options for 3d rendering, and your question describes the problem pretty well. First there is all kinds of software, and many people will say that they know the "proper" way of doing it, but where they are right they don't know what they are talking about. The situation is that you want something built from scratch, using as many 3rd party tools as you can, so that you can customize them and you'll learn a lot doing it. If you're looking for a closed box algorithm that does what you want to do and you are going to use the result as the foundation of your next project, then you should use Blender. If you don't like to rewrite the world, use Autodesk 360. It lets you use 3rd party software to build things, and there are people there who are helpful and want to collaborate. If you're looking for something that just does what you want, then you can use Fusion 360, or some level of the cloud which can do "things" like that. If you're talking about using a pre-built product, then Adobe has a library of finished renders they sell. and those seem to be the most expensive too. If you want more control, most of them have a way to add custom brushes and stuff, and that lets you do crazy things you've probably never dreamed of doing when you're finishing your 3d model. If you want virtual prototyping done before starting, then you're going to have to create all of the shaders from scratch using the 3d tools you want to use. using the UV mapping / texture / materials / features available under the hood of the 3d editor / importer. Part of what you're looking for is probably Automapper. If you just need
