Pleasant Street Historic District The Pleasant Street Historic District is a historic district in Salem, Massachusetts, extending along Pleasant, Elm, Hancock, and Wilson Streets and Wall Street. It consists of a neighborhood of nineteen one and two story residences built between 1848 and the mid-1940s. The district was added to the National Register of Historic Places in 1992, and included three additional buildings by 1990. Description and history The Pleasant Street District is centered on Pleasant Street, which divides it from the city center. It is roughly bounded by Tewksbury Street to the north, E. Elm Street to the east, Wilson Street to the south, and Hancock Street to the west. The area consists of nineteen one and two story brick residential buildings, with irregular orthogonal and L-shaped floor plans. They were built between 1848 and 1941 for working class white homeowners. There is a typical variety of architectural styles, including Queen Anne and Shingle styles. They were built by the newly formed Salem Realty Company, which was formed in 1849 to promote real estate development. Until the 1880s, Pleasant Street was the city's principal business district. The district was declared a historic district by the Historic Districts Commission in 1984. It was added to the National Register of Historic Places in 1992. The three additional properties, all one-story Queen Anne Victorian structures, are located on the immediate vicinity of Pleasant Street. One on each corner, and one on a short stretch of Pleasant that turns the corners at Hancock Street. Two of them are religious institutions; the Palms Cemetery of the Sacred Heart in Pleasant Street and the First Baptist e79caf774b calculus 4th edition robert smith roland minton solution manualLebanese pound The Lebanese pound ( / Bqir; sign: ; code: LB) is the official currency of Lebanon, with 100 lepi = 1 dinar ( ; symbol: LL). There are 16 quarters in a pound (lepi).

The name "pound" comes from the British pound, and the Ottoman lira came before them; all of these currencies were introduced by France in the early 19th century. All foreign currency in Lebanon is exchanged in Lebanese pounds. However, 10,000 dinars have been issued in 10,000-pound notes by the Central Bank of Lebanon. History Early years The Lebanese pound was introduced by the French in the early 19th century. It was initially pegged to the Turkish lira, but the two currencies moved closer together in 1920 and were pegged to the pound sterling in 1950. Towards independence In November 1945, Lebanon held a referendum on a new constitution, in which the pound was the unit of account. The National Assembly followed suit by approving the new constitution, establishing the pound as the "sole currency of the state" and as the base of the first legal tender. Banknotes were issued in 1947 at a value of 100 pi, followed by coins. In the early 1950s, the pound was pegged to the British pound at par, while the US dollar was introduced in 1953 at a rate of to one pound. It is not clear if the peg was fixed or floating. In July

As you can see above, the url is within the download list i.e. the HTML page for the download list. Then I thought to get the url of that HTML page, in order to combine it with the next step. But as you can see above. even if I put the console.log(xmlHttp.url); at the onclick, the url is not printed out. How can I do? A: You can't. The web page is constructing a hidden iframe and you cannot access it programmatically. You may try to access "referrer" on window object or manually open the same url, but the server will return a 404. I suppose you can try with the URL that is returned as the download link. the list of countries on GOOGLE map I am working with the following json data: [ { "components": [ { "title": "Country", "value": "USA" }, { "title": "Country", "value": "China" } ], "heading": "All Countries", "value": "United States" } ] The data fetches fine and the result looks like this in the order USA->All Countries China However when I pass it to google maps API I want to reverse the order: China->All Countries USA Is it possible to do that? A: There is no API service that can achieve that. Maps API features a list of "Common Elements" (like the navigation marker and pane) as part of the service. It does not include any logic to control the order of the display of the elements. You could either (and I'd recommend this approach) pull data on a second page (a static HTML file or a single page application) which does include the order you want. Then you could place your data into a Google AJAX search (
