Ma il cortile è rimasto chiuso e gli agenti non hanno potuto riprendere gli scontri nella zona dove si era verificato il fenomeno. Q: Preventing page jumping between pages I am building a system which displays sets of data stored in an XML file. I am having difficulty preventing the page from jumping between pages. I am using jQuery Cycle, as I find it highly effective. The XML is built inside a containing all the entries. The is placed at the end of the file in the "entries" section. The issue is that when the browser loads the page, it appears that the first is on the left hand side of the browser. Each subsequent is then positioned to the right. This makes scrolling rather unpleasant. I would like the page to be positioned on the left hand side of the browser. Each subsequent should be shifted to the right so that the scroll bar will have to be reduced. The code for page display is: var myJQ = $("#myJQ"); $("#myJQ").cycle({ fx: 'fade', speed: 'fast', timeout: 1000, fit:
