I try to get the target platform from the environment. My environment looks like this: $ echo $LD_FLAGS -Flibfpc.lib -Ltarget.lib -L.\.lib I try to get the list of the libraries with fpc -list. $ fpc -list fpc.exe: Error: you do not have any libraries in the build directory I guess the -L is not working on the command line. Is there another way to list all the libraries? A: I don't know exactly why it doesn't work when called from the command line, but that works when called from fpcrc. ; Print current libraries ; -l: Link with this library ; -L: Link this library from the library search path ; -filename: Link the given.lib file ; ----- ; Print current libraries ; -l: Link with this library ; -L: Link this library from the library search path ; ----- ; Print targets in a given library ; LIBRARY: library (string) ; TARGET: target (string) ; ----- ; Set current working directory to the given directory ; WRKDIR: working directory (string) ; Build the library, except when a library with the same name is found. ; LIBRARY
