
Grundig Radio Codes From Serial Number ((FULL))

it had originally taken me 3 days to get this page up and running. so much so that i was happily shouting "yippee, yippee, yippee" in the wee small hours of the morning..there wasn't much to shout about, nothing came up.it just didn't work. no solutions, no nothing. well suddenly in the early hours of the morning this message just popped up "it's not that long a msg" and all hell broke loose. why don't you chaps make some more suggestions? i've spoken to every vintage car radio vendor i know - even the russians - and no-one had any idea how to generate the radio code using a computer program. in addition, most of them told me that they don't give out the code numbers for each radio anymore and that in many cases the car manufacturers have changed the serial numbers on the radios. however, there has been no problem with my grundig radios in any of my regular cars apart from the 651s my project to get around these problems may take a few years, but i'm sure i'll be able to! :d just in case you haven't managed to do so yet, you can get the grundig 8-digit radio code by following these instructions. simply enter the grundig radio code found on the label of your grundig radio, and you will be able to see your grundig radio code. you can also print the grundig code, or save it as a text file. you will find the grundig radio code number on the label on the grundig radio, or on any printed documentation or user's manuals that came with the grundig radio. you will also find this number displayed on your grundig radio's display. for example, if you have grundig radio code 2338, you would enter it as follows:
