We describe a two-photon microscopy technique for measurement of the spatio-temporal dynamics of the association between the cortical actin cytoskeleton and the plasma membrane of single cells. The method relies on the use of fluorescent markers to provide information about the actin and membrane in the near field, and single-photon, annular-confocal, imaging to obtain the far field. Combining this technique with simultaneous measurements of red and green fluorescent This is a quick guide on how to install Native Instruments FM8 presets.
