I am creating a wildcard user control to work with a form - it works fine with a form that is hosted on a master page but not with a form that is hosted in a non-master page. I have created a generic user control which works in the hosted form - this seems to be OK because this is the only instance of that user control in the application. I have then created a wildcard user control which is supposed to work with all instances of the user control, but I cannot
